Contents

List of Tables and Figures v
Notes on Contributors vi

1 Introduction: Everyday Life in (Post-)Neoliberal Latin America
   Daniel Nehring, Gerardo Gómez Michel and Magdalena López 1

2 Imaginaries, Sociability and Cultural Patterns in the Post-Neoliberal Era: A Glance at the Argentinean, Paraguayan, and Venezuelan Experiences
   Miguel Ángel Contreras Natera 21

3 Making Neoliberal Selves: Popular Psychology in Contemporary Mexico
   Daniel Nehring 47

4 From Uribe’s “Democratic Security” to Santo’s Peace Accords with the FARC: Hate, Fear, Hope and other Emotions in Contemporary Colombian Politics
   Fabio López de la Roche 71

5 Cine Bajo Tierra: Ecuador’s Booming Underground Cinema in the Aftermath of the Neoliberal Era
   Rafael Ponce-Cordero 93

6 Neoliberalising Humanity: Culture and Popular Participation in the Case of the Street Market of Caruaru, Brazil
   Adilson Silva Ferraz 115

7 The Contribution of the Catholic Magazine Espacio Laical and the Constitution to the Cuban Public Sphere
   Alexei Padilla Herrera and Armando Chaguaceda Noriega 135

8 Argentina: The Philosophical Resistance to the Conquest of the Soul
   Enrique Del Percio 159
| 9 | Fleeing (Post-)Chávez Memories: The 1990s and the Black Friday Generation | 177 |
|   | Magdalena López |
| 10 | Re-imagined Community: The Mapuche Nation in Neoliberal Chile | 195 |
|    | Gerardo Gómez Michel |
| 11 | Neoliberalism and the Negotiation of the American Dream in Contemporary Latina Narratives | 221 |
|    | Jenifer A. Skolnick and Emmanuel Alvarado |
| 12 | Bare Life in Contemporary Mexico: Everyday Violence and Folk Saints | 243 |
|    | Jungwon Park |
| Index                                      | 261 |
List of Tables and Figures

Tables

3.1 Sales of self-help books in Mexico, 2005–11 50
3.2 Local production of self-help books in Mexico, 2005–10 51
3.3 Poverty headcount ratio at $3.10 a day (2011 PPP), Mexico, 1984–2014 (% of population) 52
3.4 Gini index for Mexico, 1984–2014 53

Figures

6.1 Photo from the “Memories of Caruaru” postcard series 118
6.2 Clay figures for sale in the Caruaru Market 119
6.3 One of the busy avenues in the Caruaru Market 119
Notes on Contributors

Emmanuel Alvarado received his PhD in comparative studies with a concentration in Hispanic studies from Florida Atlantic University. Currently, Dr Alvarado works as Professor of Spanish and Hispanic Studies at Palm Beach State College. He has published numerous articles and presented various conference papers in the fields of sociolinguistics and Hispanic studies. Some of his publications include “Mexico’s Poor: Contextualizing Poverty and Inequality in the Post-NAFTA Years,” published in the Delaware Review of Latin American Studies. Subsequent articles include “Attitudes Toward Immigrants and Multiculturalism in Contemporary America: The Role of Foreign Language Fluency,” published in Sociation Today (2009), and “Intimacy, migration, and cultural change: Latinos and American Fertility” published in Revista de Estudios Sociales (2009). More recently, Dr Alvarado has co-authored Intimacies and Cultural Change (Ashgate and Routledge, 2014) as well as Transnational Popular Psychology and the Global Self-Help Industry (Palgrave, 2016).

Armando Chaguaceda Noriega currently works at the División de Ciencias Sociales y Humanidades, Universidad de Guanajuato. Armando does research in international relations, political theory and comparative politics. The División’s current project is “Cuban communism from Fidel to Raúl.”

Miguel Ángel Contreras Natera is an Associate Professor of the Sociology School at Central University of Venezuela (UCV) and Associate Researcher 3 at the Venezuelan Institute of Scientific Research. He has a PhD in development studies from CENDES-UCV. Contreras has worked extensively on neoliberalism and its political-cultural influence in Latin America while his latest publications focus on the global issues of political philosophy. His most recent works are: A geopolitics of the spirit. Leo Strauss: political philosophy as return and U.S. imperialism (Celarg, 2011), Insurgent imaginaries and postneoliberalism in Latin America (Stanford University, 2013), Another way of being or beyond euroccidentialism (Arandura, 2015) and Criticism of neoliberal reason. From neoliberalism to post-liberalism (Akal, 2016).

Enrique Del Percio is Professor of Sociology at the University of Buenos Aires and Director of the PhD of Philosophy of the Jesuit University of Salvador (San Miguel, Buenos Aires). He also has a Fellowship at Birkbeck College (University of London). His latest book is Unavoidable Fraternity: Conflict, Power and Desire.

Adilson Silva Ferraz is Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Sociology at ASCES-UNITA and FAFICA (Brazil). He holds a master’s degree in ethics and political philosophy from the Universidade Federal de Pernambuco (UFPE) and is a PhD candidate in law (University of Buenos Aires, UBA) and philosophy (Catholic University of Argentine, UCA). He was Visiting Researcher at Sorbonne University (2013). He was elected to the Academy of Sciences, Literature and Arts of Caruaru in 2015. His research concerns the relationship between neoliberalism and processes of subjectivation in the field of culture. He is author of Inverso do Verso (2016, Chiado Editora) and chief editor of the online journal Contemporânea – Revista de Ética e Filosofia Política.

Gerardo Gómez Michel obtained his PhD in Hispanic languages and literatures from the University of Pittsburgh and currently is Assistant Professor in the Institute of Iberoamerican Studies in the Busan University of Foreign Studies, Republic of Korea. He has published and presented papers in journals and conferences in Brazil, Mexico, Korea, Argentina, the US and the UK, among others. His research is focused on contemporary Latin American and indigenous literature, with an emphasis in a multidisciplinary approach from cultural studies theory. He is author of El Dictador Descentrado. Poder, Historia e Identidad en Latinoamérica: El Recurso del Método de Alejo Carpentier (Mexico: Nortestación, 2014) and he edited Neoliberalismo y Posneoliberalismo. Retos y Respuestas desde América Latina. (Busan: Institute of Iberoamerican Studies, 2015).

Magdalena López (Ph.D. University of Pittsburgh) is a research fellow at the Kellogg Institute for International Studies (University of Notre Dame, United States) and Instituto Universitário de Lisboa (ISCTE-IUL, Portugal). She specializes in culture and literature in the Hispanic American Caribbean and is currently developing a study of cultural exchanges between Lusophone Africa and the Caribbean. She is the author of El Otro de Nuestra América: Imaginarios Frente a Estados Unidos en la República Dominicana y Cuba (Instituto Internacional de Literatura Iberoamericana, 2011), and Desde el Fracaso: Narrativas del Caribe Insular Hispano en el Siglo XXI (Verbum, 2015). She has published more than 20 articles on Caribbean literature and cinema in edited volumes and journals such as the Bulletin of Hispanic Studies, Latin American Research Review, Revista Iberoamericana, Sargasso. A Journal of Caribbean Literature, Languages and Culture, América Latina Hoy, and Iberoamericana América Latina-España-Portugal.

Fabio López de la Roche is Associate Professor of Communications and Political Culture at Institute of Political Studies and International Relations IEPRI, at National University of Colombia in Bogotá. He holds a PhD in Hispanic languages and literatures from the University of Pittsburgh, USA. His research work concerns political history, political culture and mass media in Latin America during the 20th century, intolerance in Colombian political culture, and media and journalism coverage of the peace process with FARC, 2012–17. He is the author of Izquierdas y Cultura Política. Oposición Alternativa? (CINEP, Bogotá, 1994); Cultura, Medios y Sociedad (co-author with Jesús Martín-Barbero; Universidad Nacional de Colombia, Bogotá, 1998); and Las Ficciones del Poder. Patriotismo, Medios de Comunicación y Reorientación Afectiva de los Colombianos bajo Uribe Vélez (2002–2010) (Penguin Random House, Bogotá, 2014).

Daniel Nehring is Associate Professor of Sociology at East China University of Science and Technology in Shanghai. He holds a PhD in sociology from the University of Essex in the UK, and he has worked and conducted extensive research in Mexico and Argentina. His research concerns transformations of personal life in the context of neoliberal globalization. He is the author of Sociology (Pearson and Routledge, 2013), Intimacies and Cultural Change (Ashgate and Routledge, 2014), Transnational Popular Psychology and the Global Self-Help Industry (Palgrave, 2016), and Therapeutic Worlds (Routledge, forthcoming).

Alexei Padilla Herrera is a doctorate student at Federal University of Minas Gerais, Brazil. He has a master’s degree in social communication (2016) and a bachelor’s degree in social communication (2009). His research concerns alternative media, public spheres, and political communication in Cuba.
Jungwon Park is Associate Professor of Spanish at Kyung Hee University in Korea. He holds a PhD in Latin American literature and cultural studies from the University of Pittsburgh, USA. His research interests include US–Mexico border studies, Mexican literature, Latin American film and trans-Pacific studies between Asia and Latin America. He is the co-author of Transfronteras: Fronteras del Mundo y Procesos Culturales (El Colegio de la Frontera Norte, 2014) and Peripheral Transmodernities: South to South Intercultural Dialogues between the Luso-Hispanic World and the Orient (Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2012).

Rafael Ponce-Cordero is Associate Professor at Keene State College in Keene, New Hampshire. Born in Guayaquil, Ecuador, he earned his PhD in Hispanic languages and literatures at the University of Pittsburgh in 2010. His academic interests include 20th and 21st century Latin American narrative, postcolonial and subaltern theory, and especially the study of popular culture. Dr Ponce-Cordero is the author of Dinámicas Socioeconómicas Regionales: La Lucha de Guayaquil por un Obispado Propio y la Pugna con Cuenca a Fines de la Colonia (Universidad de Guayaquil, 2010), and is currently working on a second book based on his doctoral dissertation and provisionally titled Héroes y Bandidos: Iconos Populares y Figuraciones de la Nación en América Latina. He is also coordinating the edited volume Can the Subaltern Be a Superhero? The Politics of Non-Hegemonic Superheroism.

Jenifer A. Skolnick is an Associate Professor of English at Palm Beach State College in Palm Beach Gardens, FL where she teaches Composition and Literature courses. She holds a bachelor’s degree in English with minors in Psychology and Criminal Justice and a master’s degree from Florida Atlantic University. Her research focuses on contemporary literary works that confront the struggle of identity development and perceptions of reality defined by restrictive social systems. She is interested in exploring challenges to negotiating the categories through which individuals define themselves, particularly when crossing cultural boundaries. Her most current research questions where we find passion in a world where humans are simultaneously the most connected and yet most disconnected in human history and the powerful need for storytelling as a means of self-guided improvement to find inner meaning. Previous publications and presentations include “Abjection and Social Transformation in John Fowles’s Mantissa and A Maggot” and “Themes in Modern Latino American Cultural Narratives”.

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Unauthenticated | Downloaded 10/01/23 01:24 PM UTC