PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS

Peter Knoepfel, Corinne Larrue, Frédéric Varone and Michael Hill
Contents

List of tables and figures .............................................. v
Preface to the English edition ..................................... vii
Introduction .................................................................... ix

Part I  Theoretical framework

| One | Theoretical perspectives on policy analysis | 3 |

Part II  Keys to the analysis

| Two | Public policy | 21 |
| Three | Policy actors | 39 |
| Four | Policy resources | 63 |
| Five | Institutional rules | 91 |

Part III  Analysis model

| Six | Analysis model | 113 |
| Seven | Political agenda setting | 125 |
| Eight | Policy programming | 151 |
| Nine | Policy implementation | 187 |
| Ten | Evaluating policy effects | 221 |
| Eleven | Research and working hypotheses | 251 |
| Twelve | Conclusion | 273 |

References .................................................................. 289
List of tables and figures

Tables

2.1 The different sequences of a public policy 31
2.2 Similarities between the policy cycle and the stages of problem solving 35
5.1 Synopsis of neo-institutionalist schools 93
7.1 The relationships between the structuring of a problem and political strategies 138
7.2 Variables for the political agenda setting of public problems 146
8.1 Actors, resources and institutional rules involved in the decision-making process (programming) 183
9.1 Differences between the ‘top-down’ and ‘bottom-up’ visions of policy implementation 196
9.2 Qualification of the products PAP, action plan and formal implementation acts according to the type of legal dimension 199
11.1 Utility of the model on the basis of the level and ambition of the proposed empirical research 252
11.2 Summary of the operational elements for the analysis of the six products of a public policy 254

Figures

1 Key elements of public policy analysis 18
2.1 The different constituent elements of a public policy 30
2.2 The policy cycle 32
2.3 The public policy process and filtering mechanisms 34
3.1 The basic triangle of policy actors 57
4.1 Overview of the different public policy resources 65
5.1 The hierarchy of institutional rules 103
6.1 Policy stages and products (postulate no 1) 114
6.2 The direct and indirect influence of the triangle of actors on the first two stages of a public policy (postulate no 2) 117
6.3 Theoretical model for the analysis of a public policy 120
7.1 Definition process for public problems and possible pitfalls 131
8.1 The constituent elements of a political-administrative programme 154
8.2 Detailed and framework political-administrative systems compared
8.3 Political-administrative arrangement – substantive, institutional or mixed
8.4 Heterogeneous administrative contexts
8.5 Homogeneous administrative contexts
9.1 Links needed between political-administrative programme objectives, planning priorities and outputs (scope for implementation deficits)
9.2 Actors and substantive results of implementation
10.1 Objectives and criteria of evaluation
11.1 Direct and indirect games based on the substantive and institutional content of policy products
11.2 Causal sequences formalised in the research hypotheses
11.3 Possible combinations of variables for the formulation of working hypotheses