Notes on the author

Denise Tanner is a lecturer in social work at the University of Birmingham. She is a registered social worker and has extensive practice experience in social work with adults as well as many years’ experience as a lecturer and researcher. She has a particular interest in service user and carer involvement in social work education and research.
Acknowledgements

This book would not have been possible without the willingness of the older people, whose stories form the central thread of the book, to take part in the research. I am immensely grateful to them for welcoming me into their homes, giving their time generously and opening their lives to me with such warmth, humour and fortitude.

Other people who have helped in various ways and at different times include Joan Forbes, Barbara Walters, Paul Bywaters and John Harris.

My thanks to Judith Phillips and staff at The Policy Press for their patience, understanding and support during the writing and production period.

Finally, my love and thanks to Jessica, Charlotte and Eleanor, for sustaining me through difficult times.
